

Hundreds Mark Anniversary Of JFK's Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — When it was over they came through the darkness down the slopes of the great cemetery at Arlington to place candles—hundreds of them—on a granite ledge near the foot of Robert Francis Kennedy's grave.

They had come—more than 5,000 persons—to mark the first full year since an assassin's bullet took the New York senator's life.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, in a black suit, stood next to Ethel, his brother's widow. Hatless and wearing a simple all-white dress, she was in the center of the long row of Kennedy kin as the memorial folk Mass began Friday night.

Near the end of the line, standing a few paces from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, was Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, wearing a fitted black dress. A few yards behind her, across a hedge and a marble terrace, was the grave of another American leader, her first husband, President John F. Kennedy.

The Kennedy graves had been the goal of many visitors throughout the warm day. Ethel Kennedy came first, shortly after dawn, and knelt silently at her husband's stark white cross. Mrs. Onassis came late in the afternoon, pausing briefly at her brother-in-law's resting place, then walking the few steps to the eternal flame and black slate slabs that mark the graves of her husband and two of their children.

The Mass, beginning in the glow of sunset, had 15 guitarists and 70 singers and was led by white-robed Terrence Cardinal Cooke, Archbishop of New York.

"Robert Francis Kennedy was a man who responded with every breath and heartbeat to the destiny which called him . . .," the cardinal said. "He was a man of deep faith in God, in the future of his country, in the basic goodness of his fellowman."

Arraign Man For Lindberg Murder

DETROIT (AP) — A man accused of the slaying of a State Police trooper last week was to appear in court this morning for arraignment on a first-degree murder charge.

William Dupuis, 29, of Detroit surrendered himself in the presence of his attorney to Detroit police homicide officials Friday night. A warrant had been issued for his arrest Friday morning.

Dupuis is accused of the slaying of Trooper Carl Lindberg, a native of the Upper Peninsula, who was shot to death May 26 when he attempted to foil robbery at his West Side apartment building.

A second man, who has not been identified, is also being sought in the slaying.

Boys To Paddle Kayaks To Texas

NILES (AP) — Three 18-year-old Niles youths set out today to paddle their way in kayaks to Galveston, Tex., an estimated 1800 miles away.

The youths are Kent Berner, Marty Camp and Todd Oleson, who received diplomas Thursday night from Niles High School and began packing immediately for the trip which they say will parallel that of French explorer Rene LaSalle 300 years ago.

The journey will be via the Kankakee River, entered at North Liberty, Ind., about 35 miles south of Niles, the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and the Intercoastal Waterway from New Orleans to Galveston.

The three figure it will take them three to three and a half weeks to complete the trip and have set themselves a goal of 100 miles a day.

Their two kayaks were built from do-it-yourself kits and one which wrinkled when coating was applied was dubbed, "Prune." The other is "Burbule."

Communist Meet

Blame China For Destroying Unity

MOSCOW (AP) — Statements criticizing Red China threaten the success of the world Communist conference, the leader of Romania's Communist party charged.

Delegates from Paraguay and Poland lashed out at China Friday during the second session of the conference, called by the Kremlin to promote communist unity.

Nicolae Ceausescu, the leader of Romania's independent-minded party, responded to the attacks with a 500-word warning that they "represent a danger."

After Paraguay's attack, Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland condemned Peking in even harsher terms.

Gomulka, first secretary of the Polish Communist party, said in a 90-minute speech that Chinese border provocations against the Soviet Union "contain the potential danger of war." He also accused Red China of carrying out "slandering campaigns" to disrupt the international Communist movement.

Then, Ceausescu told the 360 delegates from 75 nations: "We welcomed the fact that in the course of preparations for our meeting we decided not to condemn or reproach other Communist and workers' parties."

"The Central Committee of the Romanian Communist party has authorized me, in case something of this kind should happen, to make a fervent appeal to the representatives of all participating parties not to follow this road."

"I think that each of us should put the interests of the working class, of socialism and peace, above temporary disagreements."

Pillow Case Contains Grass

School Rocket Manned By Mice

IONIA (AP) — All went well today as the sixth-grade class at Boyce Elementary School completed their sixth consecutive suborbital rocket launch.

Manned by two mice, the Fireside X blasted well over a thousand feet into space before the successful triple-parachute command module returned to earth and was caught in a blanket by the recovery team.

The teacher of the sixth-grade class, Edward Sandri, reported some difficulty with the shot, however. "There was a slight delay between burnout of the first stage and ignition of the second stage," he said. The rocket almost stopped in midair before the second stage sent it soaring again.

The rocket also began to veer during the third stage flight, but it did not cause difficulty in the landing procedure. Sandri said the two passengers, Pepino and Arnold Jr., seemed somewhat reluctant to come out of the module after the flight, but "they are in fine shape now," he said a few hours later.

Despite Ceausescu's appeal, sources said, Waldeck Rochet of France later delivered a speech saying Peking had tried to widen the Sino-Soviet rift at its ninth communist party congress this spring.

Romania is neutral in the China-Soviet dispute.

Army Convicts 12 Of Mutiny

FT. ORD, Calif. (AP) — A five-man Army court martial panel begins deliberating today the penalty for 12 soldiers it convicted Friday of mutiny for staging a singing sitdown protest at the stockade of San Francisco's Presidio.

Two other enlisted men were convicted on lesser charges.

The 14 were among 27 charged with mutiny last Oct. 14 as they staged the sitdown to protest what they called unsanitary conditions at the stockade. The sitdown came two days after a prisoner had been fatally shot by a guard during an alleged escape attempt.

Eight of the others charged have been convicted of mutiny, two have been hospitalized for observation and three have escaped and are at large.

After the convictions the panel reconvened and heard 3 1/2 hours of argument by attorneys for the defense and prosecution in what is known as the "extension and mitigation" phase of the trial that determines the penalty.

Chief defense attorney Terence Hallinan argued that "none of these men are criminals—they are sick children, and were no threat to the United States Army last Oct. 14."

Hallinan said, "These young men have been convicted of only one thing—being mistreated all their lives."

He referred to the defense argument that most of them came from broken homes, only one has finished high school, and that all were psychologically unfit to serve in the Army.

President, Thieu To Tackle South Vietnam's Takeover

Saigon Going Into Sunday's Meet Prepared

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam has abandoned his government's old approach of playing it by ear in meetings with U.S. policymakers. Instead he is preparing thoroughly for his meeting with President Nixon on Midway Island Sunday.

Thieu has been angling for the meeting since shortly after Nixon's inauguration, and diplomatic sources say U.S. agreement was part of Thieu's price for going along with Nixon's eight-point peace plan.

Although the two presidents agree in principle on the plan, there is vast room for disagreement on the mechanics of carrying it out.

Gaps between Saigon and Washington thinking on a future South Vietnamese government have become increasingly evident in recent days. Thieu knows Nixon is determined to de-Americanize the war, and Thieu will be probing at Midway to find out just how far the United States is willing to go to do that.

Thieu recently threatened to fight on alone rather than accept a coalition government in Saigon, and during his visits to Seoul and Taipei he said he would not even talk about a coalition government when he gets to Midway.

Nixon's peace plan doesn't specifically call for a coalition with the National Liberation Front, but its provision for free elections inevitably would bring some form of NLF participation in electoral planning and processes.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers has become increasingly insistent that the United States is willing to negotiate almost anything in Paris.

"We are not wedded to any government in Saigon," Rogers said at a news conference Thursday. He added that the only point that is not negotiable is the President's call for free elections.

Consequently, while Thieu is outwardly going along with Nixon's eight points, many diplomats in Saigon believe his aim is going to Midway is to get private assurances on what he considers vital issues beyond the call for elections.

Spy Plane Lost Over Bering Sea

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The aircraft searched the icy Bering Sea through the night for a Strategic Air Command reconnaissance plane which disappeared Thursday with 19 men aboard. More planes and three ships join the hunt today.

The Japanese Maritime Safety Agency said a Japanese fishing boat had reported survivors from a large aircraft, which could have been the RC135 reconnaissance plane, were adrift in a liferaft in the area.

Agnew Tells Grads

Older Generation Must Defend, Define Progress

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called today on the older generation to stop "cringing" lest the young inherit a lawless society.

Filling in for President Nixon, Agnew told members of the graduating class of Ohio State University that present-day youthful protesters are not the first to challenge aggressively the fundamental values of a society.

Both Agnew and two Cabinet members making commencement speeches today took their cue from President Nixon's campus address earlier in the week spelling out the administration answer to campus disturbances.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, speaking at his alma mater, Utah's Weber State College, cautioned against any policy on campus unrest "that fails to distinguish between legitimate student dissent and anarchistic disorder."

Don't Sell Them Short

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, speaking at Grove City College in Pennsylvania, urged American youth not to "sell the American system short," adding that a "virus of pessimism" has taken hold of the nation and world.

Agnew, in his prepared address, said, "we are not in turmoil because of young testing. We are in trouble because my generation has apparently failed to define and defend either its achievements or its inheritance from past generations of Americans."

"A society which comes to fear its children is effete. A snivelling, hand-wringing power structure deserves the violent rebellion it encourages. If my generation doesn't stop cringing, yours will inherit a lawless society where emotion and muscle displace reason."

View Complaints Calmly

Agnew suggested college administrators should take a calm look at youthful complaints, "accepting the rational and rejecting the immature." To the students he said:

"Ask yourselves which kind of a society you want for tomorrow—tomorrow when you are the establishment."

"Right now we have a choice. Will we treat all that is wrong with America as a challenge or an indictment? Will we attack these problems or just weep over them? Will we condemn our institutions or correct them? Will we repudiate democracy because it moves slowly or revitalize it so its pace quickens?"

"The answers are far from self-evident. The jury is still out. I trust that the ultimate response will be positive."

Agnew said that the American system, while far from perfect, is worth saving. He said socialism stultifies the recipients of its benefits while free enterprise has as its ultimate goal the promotion of higher living standards for all. But he added that the Constitution does not guarantee perpetual equality.

"We know that real liberty means not just an equal opportunity to be equal," he said, "but an equal opportunity to be superior if one possesses the stuff of which superiority is made."

Police Beaten In Indianapolis Riot

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Snipers fired when he answered the call of a motorcycle officer reporting a sniper on a rooftop. Watkins was treated at a hospital and released.

Police ordered everybody out of the building—the apartment complex where the trouble started Thursday night when police arrived to stop a fight—and surrounded the area.

With a helicopter hovering overhead showering light on the top of the building, officers stood with revolvers drawn and rifles braced on car tops while searchlights combed the building. They pulled back a few minutes later.

Police Chief Winston Churchill told newsmen he had no leads on the sniper.

The second night of trouble spread as much as 20 blocks outside the half-mile square where police successfully stalled off the first night's eruption of looting, arson and rock-throwing.

The lieutenant, Michael P. Sheehan, said he was cruising the area, spotted a crowd of Negroes, stopped to break up the gathering, and was jumped. He suffered a cut on the cheek.

Police carrying riot guns arrived and lined up the more than two dozen Negroes in front of the storefront building and handcuffed them before taking them to jail.

Nixon Flies To Midway Island For Conference

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon wings westward over the Pacific today for crucial conferences with South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu on U.S. participation in the war and on ways to achieve peace.

President Nixon and his delegation will leave from El Toro Marine Air Station, south of Los Angeles, at 1:30 p.m. EDT.

The summit sessions are set for Sunday on remote Midway Island, after an overnight stop for the President in Honolulu and a final strategy session there with his key advisers.

In three working meetings for which they have allotted five hours, Nixon and Thieu will cover such questions as troop levels, Vietnam's ability to take over an increasing military role, elections and the Vietnamese political outlook.

Troop level discussions raise the question of troop withdrawals. And Nixon promised in his May 14 speech outlining an eight-point peace plan that there will be no unilateral American withdrawal.

Withdrawal Plan

But the word from Saigon is that Thieu expects Nixon to push for de-Americanization of the war. Furthermore, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the No. 2 man in the American delegation to the Midway talks, said Thursday he has no doubt the Vietnamese government is moving in the direction of letting its own forces replace U.S. forces.

He said the training of the South Vietnamese to assume more combat duty was moving along rapidly.

Reports have persisted that Thieu and Nixon would come up with an announcement Sunday of plans for withdrawal of 50,000 U.S. troops from the fighting zones. White House officials have not denied this outright although they have said they knew of no firm basis for the reports. They also have said that troop strength naturally would enter into the Midway discussions, as is always the case at such a meeting.

Influence Talks

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have stepped up their attacks in South Vietnam in the past two days, apparently in an effort to influence the talks.

And some critics of U.S. Vietnam policy have voiced doubts about the usefulness of the meeting. Sen. J.W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said, "The meetings President Johnson had didn't result in anything significant."

Nixon will arrive in Midway, a dot of land 1,200 miles west of Hawaii where the United States won a crucial naval victory in World War II, at 4 p.m. EDT. Thieu follows in 15 minutes. Each chief executive will receive full military honors.

They drive immediately to the residence of the base commander for an hour and 45 minutes of private discussions—just the two of them. At the same time, their senior advisers will be in session at an officers' club.

Back On Tuesday

After a brief break, Nixon and Thieu will arrive at the club for a working luncheon with their delegations. This is billed for an hour and 15 minutes. A final two-hour session is slated for the presidents and their senior advisers at the club.

Nixon heads for Washington, breaking the trip to spend Monday night here at his home overlooking the Pacific.

The schedule will get him back to the capital at 8:15 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Another question hanging over the conference is participation of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, in the future government of South Vietnam.

In his May 14 address, Nixon made no mention of a coalition government but said the United States is "prepared to accept any government . . . that results from the free choice of the South Vietnamese people." He added that all political elements prepared to participate in political processes without the use of

New Aid For State Police

Michigan State Troopers from the Gladstone Post are undergoing training to qualify as operators of a new electronic speed computer, VASCAR, to be used in patrol cars starting July 1, said Capt. Robert Bilgen, commander of the 8th State Police District.

According to Bilgen, troopers are being trained by district safety and traffic officers who were schooled and certified by Vascar company officials. VAS-

CAR is an abbreviation for "visual average speed computer and recorder."

Area prosecutors and judges will be oriented in its operation prior to the start of enforcement activities, said Bilgen.

The computer consists of a small, two-piece instrument mounted on the dashboard of a patrol car.

"The department has purchased 100 of these so that each post will have at least one of the units in operation," explained Bilgen.

He added: "The versatility of VASCAR allows an officer to 'clock' a vehicle in several ways in any kind of weather day or night and it makes no difference whether the patrol car is parked or cruising."

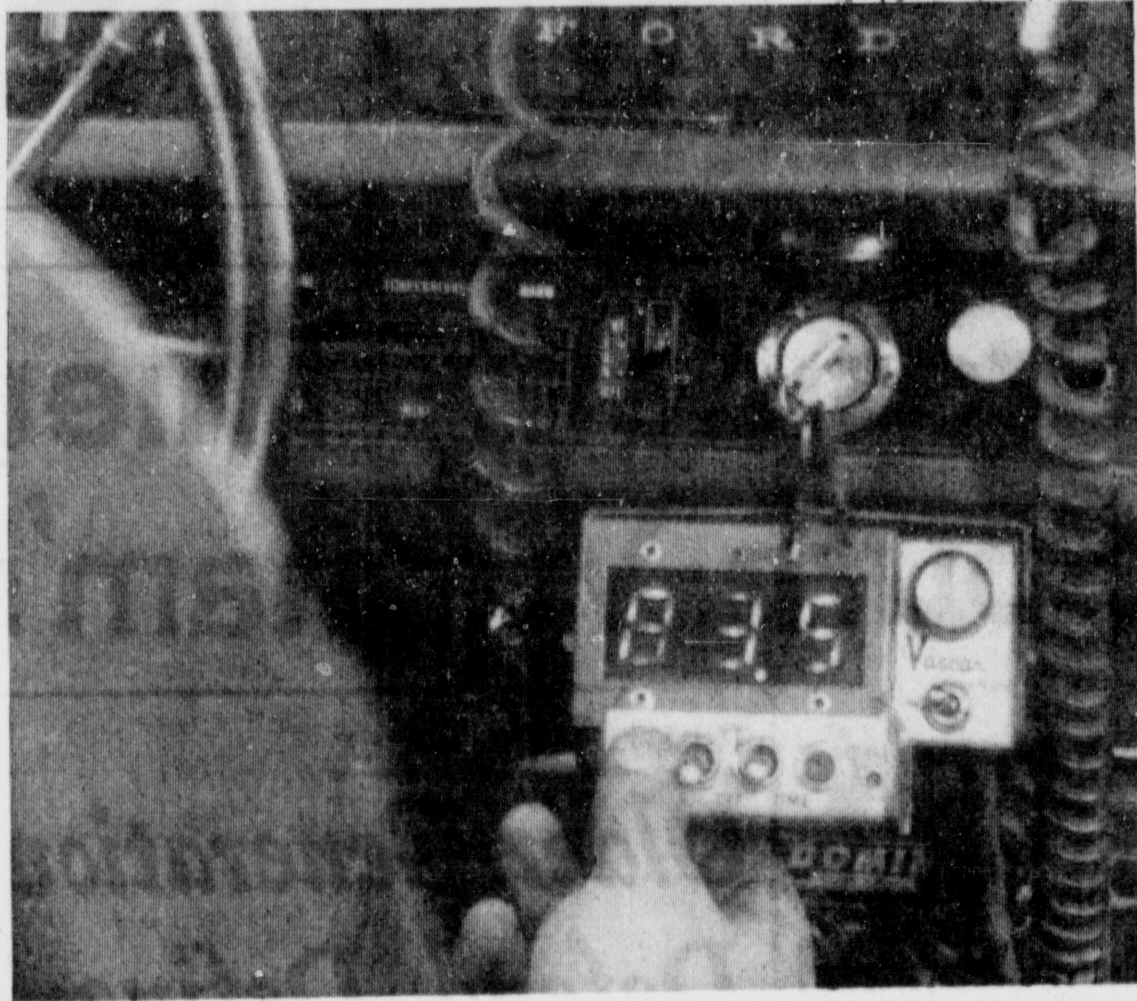

"The computer can also 'clock' vehicles regardless of their direction or speed."

Sgt. Richard Van Sipe, commander of the Gladstone Post, told the Daily Press that the computer would be a great aid in the apprehension of speeders.

Sgt. Van Sipe then explained how the computer works: "The officer by means of the unit's on and off switches enters the time factor as a target vehicle traverses a selected distance."

Then the officer drives his car over the distance and enters it on the computer. The computer then will give the officer a digital read-out of the target car's average speed."

State Police say that the computer is extremely accurate, and is currently being used in more than 30 states.

A MICHIGAN STATE TROOPER is shown operating VASCAR, the new electronic computer that will help in the apprehension of speeders.

The Catherine Bonifas Civic Center will go on its summer schedule next week and will be closed to teenagers except on Wednesday nights from 7 to 10 p. m. High operation costs make it impractical to continue the seven-day-a-week program in light of a sharp decrease in attendance.

Elderly citizens who provide their own supervision are welcome to use the facility from Monday through Friday. The Golden Age Club will continue to hold its socials on Wednesday nights and all day Sunday.

Groups who plan to conduct meetings in the civic center are asked to call Francis Lueneburg at 786-3551 or 786-2207 and make necessary arrangements. Each group will be asked to make a written application and file it with the Recreation Department. Forms are available at the civic center.

Federal Funds To Train Police

LANSING (AP) — Michigan is placing heavy emphasis on police training, including riot control, in its plans to use federal funds for beefing up law enforcement.

Gov. William Milliken's Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice Friday adopted its final comprehensive plan for submission to the U.S. Justice Department.

The plan is expected to be in well before the June 19 deadline.

Michigan will receive $1,055,020 from the federal government.

The money is expected to be received by July 1.

The governor's commission then will start screening applications from local communities for projects acceptable to Justice Department standards.

Local units of government will receive 75 per cent of the funds and state agencies 25 per cent. In most cases, the money must be matched on a 60-40 basis.

Michigan did not develop the plan until it heard from regional planning units. Milliken had said he wanted maximum participation from every area of the state.

So great is the difference between lighted and shadowed spots on the moon that an unprotected person would burn in the searing sunlight or freeze quickly in the shadow of a rock.

Mich. Consolidated Rate Hike Is Slashed

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. has received a $4.17 million annual rate increase after asking for a hike of $26.98 million.

Chairman Willis Ward of the State Public Service Commission said the increase was based upon a rate of return of 6.88 per cent on net utility plant plus an allowance for working capital.

Spokesmen for the utility said they would have no comment on the increase pending a study of the 5th rate decision. They estimated a study of the decision would take several days.

The commission did not approve a specific rate schedule for the various classes of service. A spokesman said the schedule probably would be submitted in two or three weeks.

The spokesman said the increase for the average household customer could not be honestly estimated until the schedules are approved.

He estimated the rate increase would become effective in three weeks or so, after approval of the specific schedule.

Ward termed the 6.88 per cent "a reasonable rate of return which should enable Consolidated to meet present and future requirements of its service area and, at the same time, maintain an excellent rating in financial circles to enable it to attract capital on reasonable terms when its money demands require additional funds."

"Our decision on rate of return represents an attempt to

Plan Classes For Disturbed Child

A classroom for the emotionally disturbed child of elementary school age will be provided when the treatment program begins this summer at Brookridge, the residential home for children with emotional problems which will be located in Marquette and will serve Alger, Delta and Marquette Counties.

Classroom facilities are now being readied at Brookridge through the combined efforts of the Marquette-Alger and Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School Districts, and a teacher certified in the education of the emotionally disturbed child has been hired by the Marquette - Alger Intermediate School District, in conjunction with the Brookridge staff.

Nelson Lyke, now living in Livonia and working in Pontiac, will arrive in Marquette early in June to assume this position.

His will be the first classroom for emotionally disturbed youngsters in the tri-county area to be served by Brookridge. It is hoped that, in the future, the Brookridge facility may serve to help train teachers who will be working with emotionally disturbed youths.

The purpose of the classroom will be to provide tutoring, remedial instruction and special materials and methods in the education of the child. Such a class also promotes development of relationships between the child himself, other children, and adults.

It is the goal of special classes for the emotionally disturbed child that, with individual attention and special materials and methods, he may be able to return to the normal school classroom as soon as possible. Replacement in the regular classroom prevents additional problems from developing.

After a child has been in the special classroom he may be placed in a public school class, even though he may return to Brookridge after school.

Provisions have been made for consultation services to the school personnel prior to and upon the child's return to the regular classroom.

Contributions may be addressed to Brookridge, P. O. Box 612, Escanaba, Mich.

Black Students Evacuate Building At Kalamazoo

An undetermined number of students entered the building shortly after 6 a. m. and turned away college employees when they started to arrive for work about 7:30 a. m.

President Weimer K. Hicks went to the building and reportedly told the demonstrators no action would be taken against them if they left by 8 a. m. They complied with his request.

Hicks' administration has been conferring with black students for the past month regarding student demands, and a meeting is scheduled today between faculty and blacks.

The annual board of trustees meeting is scheduled today between faculty and blacks.

Education Association Honors Five Teachers

The close of the 1968-69 school year for the Escanaba Area public schools Friday also marked the retirement for five teachers, Jennie Maurina, Mrs. Margaret Gilbert, Mrs. Blanche Christie, Vendela Sundquist and Mrs. Dorothea Ivens.

The five teachers and Darryl Bengry, retiring president of the Escanaba Education Association, were honored recently at a banquet at the Terrace.

Gifts were presented on behalf of the association to Miss Sundquist and Miss Maurina by Louis Diedrich, principal of Lemmer School; to Mrs. Ivens by Kenneth Myllyla, principal of Jefferson and Franklin schools; to Mrs. Christie by Agnes Gleich, former Escanaba teacher, and to Mrs. Gilbert by Stephen C. Baltic, business manager.

James Green, president of the association, presented Bengry with a past president's pin.

New Rules Set For Aug. 1 On Salmon Fishing

BLANEY PARK (AP) — Regulations for salmon fishing, plans for commercial fishing rules next year and a stepped up pesticide detection program have been approved by the State Natural Resources Commission.

The commission met Friday at Blaney Park, near Manistique in the Upper Peninsula.

The new salmon fishing regulations are designed to allow anglers to catch more fish and at the same time eliminate intentional snagging.

The provisions will be effective Aug. 1 through Dec. 31, 1972.

They provide that fishermen may not:

- Use a hook longer than one-half inch between point and shank.
- Use multiple hooks except on regular artificial lures.
- Use more than one single pointed hook or an artificial lure on one line.
- Attach a weight to any hook or lure.
- Attach a weight exceeding one-half an ounce within 18 inches of any hook or lure.
- Attach a weight that will extend beyond a hook or artificial lure when the line is retrieved.

William Marks, chief of the Water Development Services division, reported the five Great Lakes states will start a stepped up pesticide monitoring program in the upper five states.

Governors To Meet

The program will concentrate on monitoring pesticide amounts in lakes Huron, Michigan and Superior and their tributaries. Water and sediment samples will be taken. First results of the tests are expected by September.

The five Great Lakes governors agreed on the program at a meeting with Gov. William Milliken April 20 in Chicago.

The commission agreed on a series of licensing provisions for Great Lakes commercial fishermen in 1970.

Eliminate Two-Thirds

To qualify fishermen must: —Have held a commercial license in 1969 and must have fished at least 50 days in two of three years between 1967 and 1969.

—Submit complete reports regarding their fishing operations. —Be properly equipped to meet department specifications for commercial fishermen.

The commission was told the tighter regulations would eliminate about two-thirds of those now engaged in commercial fishing. Most of these would be part time fishermen, it was added.

It was estimated the new regulations would result in the issuance of about 250 commercial fishing licenses in 1970.

Train Slices Truck In Two

MUNISING — A spectacular train-truck collision in East Munising last week left a huge semi-trailer in two, leaving the front portion on one side of the track and the back portion on the other.

The truck, owned by Clairmont Transfer Co., Escanaba, was pulling a 32-foot semi-trailer when it was struck by a Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railroad six-car train on a railroad crossing on M-28 near the Anna River bridge.

The terrific impact of the collision spread wreckage for several hundred yards on both sides of the track.

Officials estimate damages at more than $100,000.

The Commission reports that hearings are scheduled for: Emil Auger, 1111 Ludington St., Escanaba, possession of liquor not bearing MLCC stamps.

Toivo and Clarita Luoma, Chatham, selling to a minor.

Robert and Asparia Walters, 242 Cedar St., Manistique, premises occupied after the legal hour; intoxicated persons loitering; engaging in improper conduct; refusing to cooperate with law enforcement officers.

Fishermen Ask Lifting Of Bay Gill Net Ban

By KEN LOWE

The Michigan Natural Resources Commission was asked to build a road in Schoolcraft County and lift commercial fishing restrictions in Delta County when it held a monthly meeting on Friday at Blaney Park.

The session was held in conjunction with the 25th anniversary of the Michigan Outdoor Writer's Association.

M. J. Weber, Manistique, of the Schoolcraft County Road Commission; and Gene Johnson, Manistique highway engineer for the county; appealed to the Commission for assistance in constructing a four-mile road to serve the west campground of Indian Lake State Park.

They said the county has no funds for servicing the hard surface road which runs north from M 49. The first mile is gravel and the remaining three are sand.

Would Cost $250,000

Completed three years ago, the west campground has 100 campsites and has generated sharp increases in traffic on the sand road during the tourist season.

Johnson said that an average of 473 vehicles move over the road each day, and "our program calls for a seal coating when we get more than 100 cars a day."

Glenn Gregg, Lansing, deputy director of D.N.R., said the project would cost about $250,000.

"I can see only three possible ways to solve this problem," he said. Construction by the county; construction by the State Highway Department; or construction aid from the state legislature.

Gill Netters Heard

DNR Commission Chairman Gus Scholle, Detroit, pledged the Commission's support in attempting to persuade the Highway Department to assign a higher priority to this project or in trying to have the legislature make a direct appropriation to the project.

William Hermes, commercial fisherman on the Garden Peninsula, and James Dotsch of Garden, a member of the Delta County Planning Commission, urged the DNR to abolish the ban on gill net fishing in Big Bay de Noc.

Dotsch said 18 families in the peninsula rely on commercial fishing for all or a part of their incomes. He said that gill net restrictions have harmed them financially and added that he did not believe sports fishing in Big Bay de Noc would be adversely affected if the Commission permitted gill fishing.

May Reconsider

Wayne Tody, Lansing, chief of DNR fish division, said that since 1963 perch and walleye catches in the Bay have decreased sharply. Although he cannot give the cause for the decline, he said that he believes that it is connected to the high population of alewife and smelt and the failure of the reproduction of perch and walleye.

"So do you continue to put pressure on perch and walleye with netting, or do you try to protect them?" Tody asked. "We think fishing should be restricted," he said.

The commission agreed to reconsider the matter to see if netting restrictions could be changed in any way.

Governor William B. Milliken is scheduled to address the Outdoor Writer's group tonight.

Copper Country Picnic Planned

The annual Copper Country picnic will be held June 15 at the Pioneer Trail Park Pavilion beginning at 12 noon.

There will be games and prizes for the children and hot pasties and refreshments will be served. Congressman Phillip Ruppe is also scheduled to attend.

Pollution Renege

It has taken a summer of campaigning, a vote of the people and hours of debate by the legislature, but Michigan is finally ready to move to the attack against municipal water pollution.

The bill allocating the $285 million raised in the water pollution bond issue approved by voters last November is finally on the governor's desk.

Unfortunately, the federal government — the same Uncle Sam which several years ago triggered the big governmental push against water pollution — hasn't kept its end of the financial bargain.

And that "renege" could have a considerable impact on pollution control programs in Michigan and in the other 49 states.

The federal government's big promises to help finance municipal waste treatment facilities did a lot to take the heat off the federal establishment, but little to get the crud out of the nation's waters," says Tom Kimball of Washington D. C., head of the National Wildlife Federation.

Under the Water Quality Act of 1965 and the Clean Water Restoration Act of 1966, Kimball points out, the federal government pushed states to move ahead rapidly with municipal waste treatment plants, promising a large shot of federal money to get local communities off the ground in financing the costly improvements needed.

Since then, appropriations haven't come anywhere near matching the promises.

In fiscal 1968, for example, Congress appropriated only $203 million from a $450 million authorization. In fiscal 1969, a $214 appropriation was made from a $700 million authorization. The Nixon administration followed with a request for $214 from a $1 billion authorization for fiscal 1970, reports the Wildlife Federation.

That $214 million to be spread over all 50 states is less than the $285 million voted by the people of Michigan.

The impact on local governments will be severe.

In Escanaba, for example, when the city administration began preparing for its $6 million sanitary improvement program, the indication was that the federal government would contribute 25 per cent of the cost, the state would pay 50 per cent and the city would finance the remaining 25 per cent.

On that basis, Escanaba's cost would have been about $1.5 million. With the skimpy federal participation, federal participation in local projects will be only about five per cent and even if 50 per cent participation is available from the State of Michigan the cost to the city will just about double to close to $3 million.

Escanaba's application for state and federal funds to assist in the project is being processed, reports City Manager George Harvey, but with a $3 million local price tag the whole program is on uncertain footing. Current plans call for utility revenue bonding to raise Escanaba's share. How successful that approach to $3 million is remains to be seen.

Bonding attorneys for Gladstone recommended that instead of revenue bonds that general obligation bonds be used for an $800,000 water filtration project and in today's bond market the city had to go around twice before even those could be sold.

If the federal renege wounded Escanaba's program, chances are it may have effectively killed pollution control efforts in the immediate future in other states where the people haven't voted a $285 million bond issue.

The pollution problem is one of the most critical facing the nation today, perhaps in the long run even more critical than the problems of the cities and the races. Cities can be rebuilt. Hopefully Race problems can be overcome.

Experts tell us the longer we wait on pollution the worse the situation will become, threatening our very existence.

In delaying a full-scale attack on pollution by failing to make necessary money available, the federal government is making a huge mistake.

Time Running Out

Harvard University President Nathan S. Pusey insisted recently that the solution to campus disorders must come from "within the university community itself — the students and faculty members, primarily."

He added that he is "terribly afraid" that public reaction against the current wave of campus troubles may lead to enactment of restrictive laws and tighter rein on the universities.

If university officials do not act on their own to curtail violence, Pusey's fears may be justified. Public anger at marauding students and gun-carrying militants has reached the point where no one — neither university administrators nor elected officials — can ignore it. Unless the universities themselves can re-establish authority, pressures for outside intervention are bound to increase.

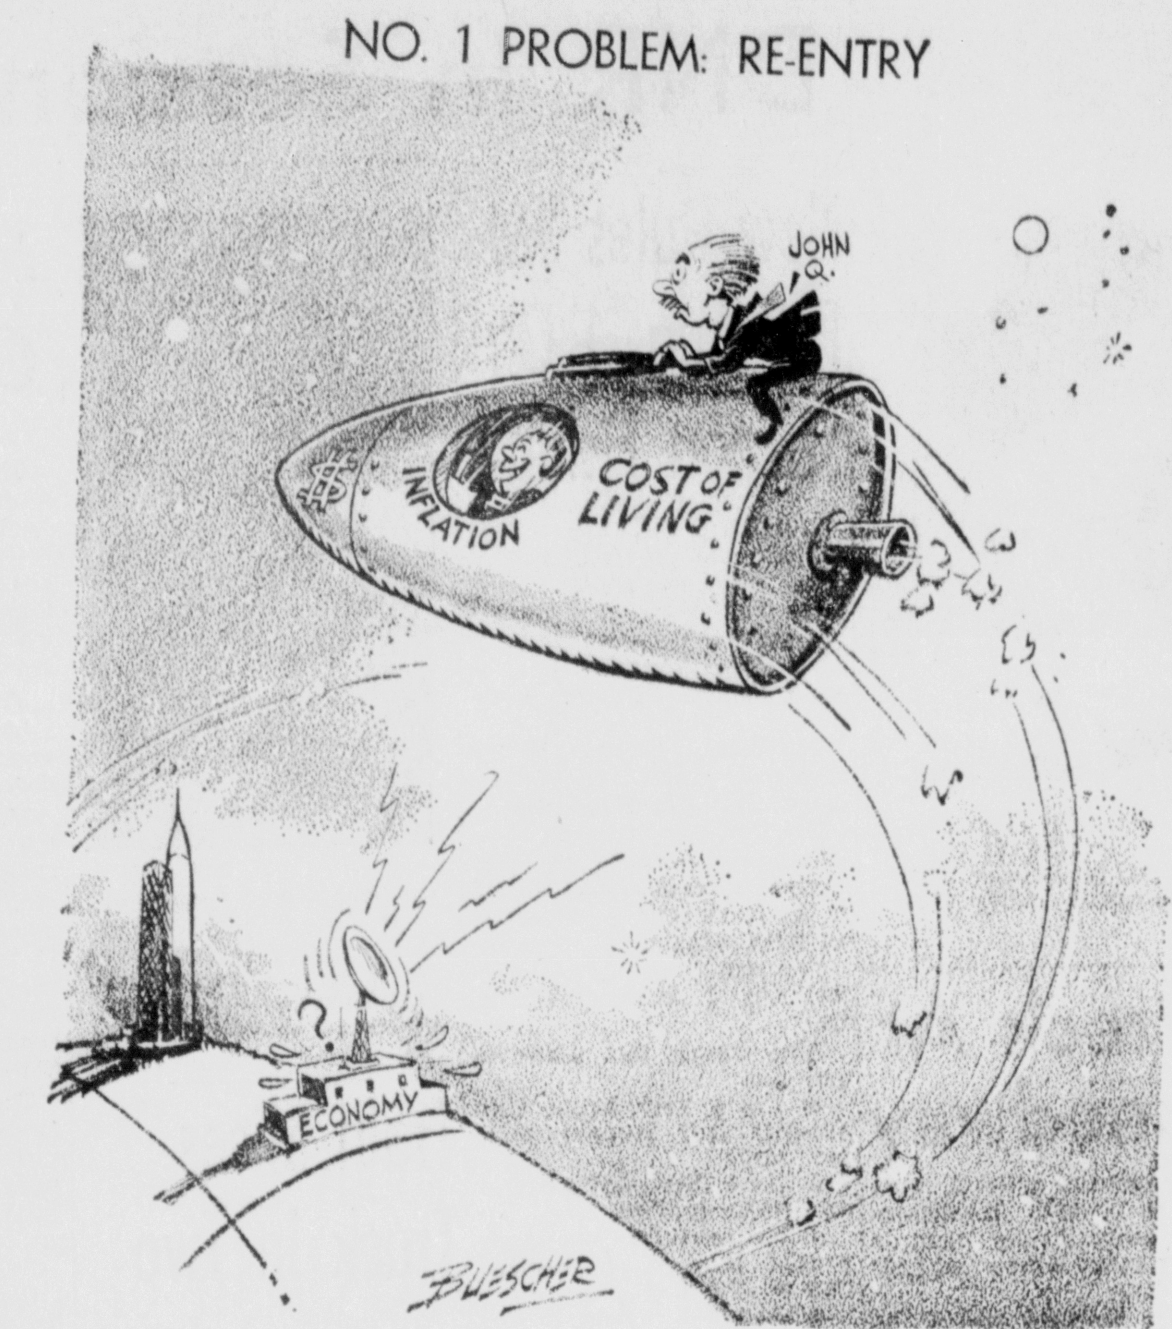

Harvard's president is correct when he says that the solution should come from within the university. Resolution of the problems at that level is certainly preferable to any other course of action.

But, as a practical matter, if efforts at that level fail, a solution will be found elsewhere. One way or another the current anarchy on campus is going to end.

An educational institution cannot tell the tax-paying public to keep hands off and at the same time fail to defend its independence and integrity against student militants. A school earns the right to autonomy only when it governs itself responsibly.

Peninsula Potpourri

Hoerner-Waldorf Co. is continuing plans for a proposed $20 million expansion of its Ontonagon facility, according to John Hoeft, general manager at Ontonagon. A new paper machine is programmed in the expansion project, which will create some 575 new jobs for the area.

U.S. Savings Bonds Losers In Inflation

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — In a strictly financial sense, U.S. Savings Bonds are misnamed, for those who purchase them lose rather than save. The reason is clear: Bonds pay 4.25 per cent, while inflation takes away 5 per cent.

Even that 4.25 per cent is misleading, for nobody earns it unless they retain their bonds to maturity. On Series E bonds no interest at all is earned in the first six months, and only in the fifth year is 4 per cent earned.

Better investments than bonds include savings and loan association shares at 4.75 per cent to 5.25 per cent, blue chip stocks that might rise in value as well as pay dividends, mutual funds and real estate.

More Bonds Cashed
The arithmetic of the situation is not overlooked by the American public, which has reduced the per cent of total savings going into bonds from 26 per cent at the beginning of the 1960s to just 12 per cent last year.

In addition, redemptions have been catching up with sales. In some months, in fact, more bonds have been cashed than purchased. In all 1968 the purchase balance was only $67 million—on sales of $4.97 billion.

There is some question if even this small balance could be attained without the payroll savings plans, under which bonds are deducted from paychecks automatically.

And the reason for the success of the payroll deduction plan has been questioned. Accusations of coercion have been made from time to time by employees of federal agencies and especially by members of the military.

Raise Interest?
So why not raise the interest rate? That's just what a panel of 67 of the nation's leading economists suggest that Congress do, for it is Congress which must act to change the 51-year-old rate ceiling on government bonds.

Suggestions for lifting this ceiling have been numerous during the past two years, but recommendations of the economists' panel may have an impact greater than all the others. Although they have no official standing in government, panel members do have much influence, both directly with members of Congress and the Nixon administration and indirectly by the weight of their reputations.

Ceiling Harmful
The panel is concerned not only with the contrast between government bonds returns and other rates, and the resulting damage to the savings bond program, but for more complicated reasons also.

For example, the inability of the U.S. Treasury to borrow money for long terms—because the ceiling prevents it from offering competitive rates to lenders—has forced it into the shorter term markets.

The result of this, the economists say, has been to draw money from the home mortgage market and force up interest rates as well.

Letters To The Press

PAROCHIAL
Rep. Charles Varnum recently issued a statement to explain his reasons for voting against Parochialism. The arguments he presents against Parochialism are inconsistent and fallacious, and I feel compelled to publicly respond on behalf of the parents and other supporters of non-public school education.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Varnum chooses to differ with the findings of the tax-funded Thomas Report, the Joint Legislative Study Committee on Non-Public Schools, and the State Chamber of Commerce, all of which proposed aid to non-public education in Michigan.

Mr. Varnum presents three constitutional provisions which, in his words, "may make aid to non-public schools unconstitutional." It hardly seems that such aid could be unconstitutional just because the governor's budget bills must be considered first, or because the Legislature has been mandated to "continue to maintain and support a system of free public schools."

Mr. Varnum also states that the State Constitution prohibits appropriations for any religious sect or society. The bill Mr. Varnum voted against clearly states that any appropriation would be made directly to the State Board of Education to purchase secular educational services which would be provided to children by qualified professional persons. Further, the U. S. Supreme Court, in several decisions, has made it clear constitutionally that valid legislation can be written to help children attending non-public schools.

Mr. Varnum speaks of inevitable state controls. The control or supervision of non-public schools is already a function of the state; it is not dependent on whether or not aid is provided the children attending these schools. The State Board of Education is charged by statute with the "supervision of all the private,

Opening lead — seven of clubs.

This deal occurred in a team match. At both tables South played three notrump and West led the seven of clubs.

At the first table, East won with the ace and found the excellent return of the ten of spades. Declarer covered with the jack, won by West with the queen. West returned the five, covered by the nine and king which South ducked, and another spade lead forced out the ace.

Declarer's only real hope now was to find West with the ace and another diamond. Accordingly, he led a diamond to the king, which held, and continued with the six to his seven, which forced out the ace. As a result South made three notrump.

At the second table, the play started the same way but took a dramatic turn when West found a spectacular way of defeating the contract.

East won the club lead with the ace and also returned the ten of spades. (Note that if East leads the seven instead of the ten declarer makes two spade tricks by playing low from his hand.)

Three rounds of spades forced out the ace, as before, but when declarer led a low diamond towards dummy, West rose to the occasion by going up with the ace, dummy following low, and returning the queen of clubs!

This extraordinary play had the desired effect. It removed South's only entry to his hand before he could enjoy his diamonds, and the net effect was that South finished down two. The only tricks he scored were a spade, three hearts, a diamond and two clubs.

West's defense was very well reasoned. He realized that he had to credit East with a heart stopper as well as a diamond honor, and he also realized that passive defense would prove fatal if South had the queen of diamonds. So he willingly sacrificed a club trick in the hope that South would have to give it back later on with interest.

denominational, and parochial schools of this State."

Mr. Varnum's good conscience will "not permit the destruction of the non-public system as it has traditionally operated." Apparently Mr. Varnum would prefer to assist in the destruction by withholding any aid to non-public education, thereby forcing these schools out of existence. Non-public school parents are saving Michigan's taxpayers over one million dollars every school day—well over $240 million a year. Every child who transfers to a public school costs the taxpayers more than $800 a year.

We are glad Mr. Varnum is willing to admit that "many Catholic citizens have their backs to the wall financially." Catholic schools depend exclusively on these very same citizens for all of their financial resources. When Mr. Varnum suggests that the Diocese should help these schools, he suggests that the Diocese is something separate from the people. The Diocese is the people, and the Diocese has asked Mr. Varnum for help and he has refused.

The Legislature votes to eliminate the free choice Mr. Varnum is concerned about when it votes against state aid to non-public education. Since he wants to "preserve free choice in education," perhaps he will want to reassess his "final decision" when the opportunity to vote again arises.

We appreciate the fact that Mr. Varnum has studied this issue. We sincerely hope that he will continue to do so.

EVEN IN A MINI!
EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Many men are only 50 when they start showing the first signs of old age, according to a medical expert addressing a congress of the Royal Society of Health. Dr. C. A. Boucher said one symptom is no longer taking notice of a pretty girl in the street.

Ann Landers Counselor's List Opened Her Eyes

Dear Ann Landers: Here is how you helped me. I wrote to you last month and complained about my mother. I told you life at home was unbearable and I was thinking about running away. You advised me to cool it and have a talk with my school counselor. I took your advice.

My school counselor listened patiently and gave me a list of questions to answer. Here are the questions and my answers:

- (1) Does your mother nag you a lot about the mess in your room?
Answer: Yes.
- (2) Does she nag if your room is in order?
Answer: No.
- (3) Does your mother scold you when you come home late from a date?
Answer: Yes.
- (4) Does she scold you when you are in on time?
Answer: No.
- (5) Does your mother insist that you do homework and chores before you go visit your friends or engage in any kind of recreation?
Answer: Yes.
- (6) Does she restrict your activities if your homework and chores are done?
Answer: No.
- (7) Does your mother do favors for you such as iron a blouse if you are in a hurry?
Answer: Yes.
- (8) Do you volunteer to help her occasionally in order to make her work lighter?
Answer: No.
- (9) When you leave the house does your mother ask you where you are going, with whom and who else will be there?
Answer: Yes.
- (10) Do you always tell her the truth?
Answer: No.

This list of questions opened my eyes. Ann, I saw for the first time that I was to blame for most of the trouble I'd been having with my mother. I'm doing much better now and life is a lot more pleasant in our home for everyone. Thank you.—Paula

Dear Paula: You sound like a living doll. Thanks for your letter.

Dear Ann Landers: My son just returned from the Air Force. His uniforms are in good condition. He says he's seen them enough and would not wear them for yard work or loafing. Yet he claims it is against regulations to give a uniform away. Any suggestions?—Dodge City

Dear Dodge: Uniforms can be given away if the buttons and insignia are removed. If you'd rather make a buck than a gift, run an ad. A young man going into the service might buy them. Resale shops on the bases also have resale shops which purchase used uniforms. I hope your son will keep just one uniform as a weight control measure. Nothing encourages diet like trying to struggle into an old uniform and discovering it is several sizes too small.

Players To Perform The 'Fantasticks'

The 'Fantasticks' will be presented by the Players de Noc in late July at the Terrace. The musical is in its 10th year in an off Broadway theater.

The play is original in many respects and will be a first for the Players. It consists of a small cast of eight people playing in the three-quarter round which permits new intimacy with the audience.

The narrator opens the play with the wistful, "Try to Remember," and he then introduces the cast, a young man, a girl, two fathers, two actors and a mute.

The plot concerns a romance between the young people promoted by the fathers, which is short lived, and continues through the years of growing up. Finally through the hurt and disillusionment, Matt and Louisa rediscover love.

Tryouts will be held soon for the music which is written by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt. Peter Adamini will direct the play.

Tempeatures Normal In May

The monthly climatological summary for the month of May from the U.S. Weather Bureau shows alternate warm and cool weather balanced out to give an average temperature very near the monthly normal. On the 28th the maximum temperature, 81, equalled the all-time high for that date established in 1931.

As the result of a ten-day dry spell during the latter half of the month, precipitation tallied only about 60 per cent of the normal for May.

Being a member of the school board demands dedication, experience, and a concern for more than just using the office to build one's own public image. It also demands that a candidate have some answers—rather than just tearing down the Board or Administration.

I have that dedication, that experience. The only public image I want is that of doing the best job possible. And I also have what I think are some answers to many of the present school problems.

IF YOU WANT EXPERIENCE, DEDICATION AND CONCERN TO REPRESENT YOU ON THE ESCANABA AREA PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD, VOTE FOR ME,

Lueneburg's 'Cross' Work Is Friendly To Church

By SALLY BARRETT
John Lueneburg, 617 S. 12th St., has an unique hobby. Since April of 1968, he has made 2,000 crosses over an accumulative time of 1096 hours. Included in this total were 44 hours spent in collecting the wood for the crosses and 40 hours in sanding them by hand. In the latter part of March, 1968, the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 220 S. 4th St., was torn down to be replaced by a new one. J. Alton Mallmann, 316 S. 16th St., to whom Lueneburg gives all the credit for his novel occupation, suggested that the old lumber from the church should be saved and used in making crosses that could be sold back to the congregation and other interested buyers. Works At Home In helping to disassemble the wood in the church, Lueneburg discovered that the organ alone contained 5,000 screws. Today, he has every one of these screws in his basement. He took wood from every part of the church, even the organ pedals, and can identify each cross with the place from which its wood came. "There's some really religious crosses in my basement and they're 84 years old, too," Lueneburg said.

Lueneburg has the complete system for making his crosses set up in the basement of his home. "It's a challenge but an awful lot of work," he said. Each cross is beveled by hand and the parts are made to fit together without using any glue. Lueneburg said that he lost 1,200 crosses while mastering this technique. His entire family assisted him as well as the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church youth group. Raises $700 Approximately $700 has already been raised for the church with Lueneburg's new project. He made sure that every child in the church had a small cross whether the youngster could give a dime, a penny, or nothing at all. Lueneburg's larger crosses sell at a minimum of $2 each because of the tedious work that is entailed in their creation. He is now able to make one of his smaller crosses in 20 minutes and it is purchased by a donation. Already, he has requests for crosses from people as far as the Soo.

Lueneburg, a modest person, says that he does not care for publicity; but, rather, he is doing this for the church and his own enjoyment. All the money and time involved in making the crosses he has donated to the church. Work Preserved Along with the crosses, Lueneburg is making a sacrament box for the church and has remade the church choir cabinets for his own use at home. Many of his crosses can be seen in the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Sunday School rooms.

Lueneburg's work will be long remembered. St. Stephen's Church made certain of that. One of his smaller crosses was laid within the cornerstone of the new church.

U.S. Car Sales Show Return To Compacts

DETROIT (AP)—Most recent sales indicate the American automobile buyer may be swinging back to the smaller, lower priced lines.

With taxes and the cost of living rising, some within the industry view sales for the month of May as indicative of a trend away from the intermediates.

While sales for the industry as a whole in the U.S. market were off about two per cent from May 1968, sales of both foreign and domestic compacts were up. Most bottom-of-the-line cars of U.S. automakers also are ahead for the first five months of 1969, compared with the same span of record-setting 1968.

Small Cars Ahead A dock strike earlier in the year adversely affected import sales, but these experienced a sharp upturn in May, with some sources forecasting final figures would show a record 100,000 for the month.

Whether one month is indicative of an industry trend is a matter of conjecture, especially since May was the first full month in which sales of Ford's new minicar, the Maverick, were reflected.

But American Motors' Rambler, General Motors' Chevy Nova and its import, Opel, Chrysler's Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart all were ahead in May.

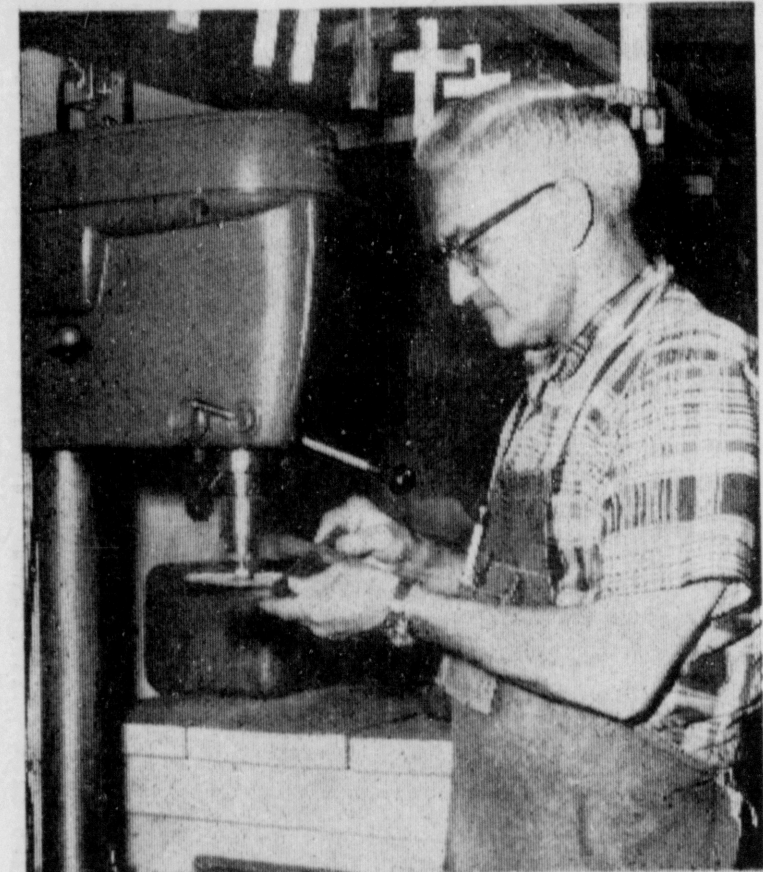

Volkswagen of Germany reported it sold 52,947 new cars in the American market last month, highest for any month since a record of 53,915 set last October.

Ramblers Up Fiat of Italy reported record monthly sales for May, 4,314 against 4,004 last August and 2,991 in May of 1968.

Ford will run at overtime Saturday at Kansas City turning out Mavericks. It also will assemble Mavericks for the third Saturday in a row at St. Thomas, Ont.

While Falcon, Ford's former bottom-of-the-line, and its sporty Mustang both lost ground last month, compared with the previous May, Maverick's 23,520 sales gave the three a net gain of 18,250.

American Motors, whose success brought other U.S. automakers into competition with it in the compact field in the early 1960s, reported the sale of 9,191 Ramblers in May, compared with 8,701 in May of 1968. For the year Rambler is ahead, 38,983 to 34,996.

Crucial School Votes Monday

LANSING (AP)—A $1.4 million school stands empty at Grand Ledge. There is no money to pay for its operation.

Some 100 teachers face a massive lay-off in Muskegon. There is no money to pay their salaries.

Authorities warn of decreased classroom time for pupils in Huron Valley. There is no money to pay expenses.

Michigan taxpayers will decide Monday whether they want these and similar conditions to continue as voters ballot in an estimated 200 school millage and bond elections throughout the state.

Dr. Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction—who contends the state and federal governments should pick up a much greater share of the education tab—says nonetheless that "until this happens, all of us will be shortchanged unless property owners support education tab—says nonetheless that "until this happens, all of us will be shortchanged unless property owners support education" by approving school money requests.

Statistics from last year indicate, however, that voters face an awesome task if their decisions Monday are to compare favorably with 1968 June school election results. Of 296 millage proposals sought last June, 210—71 per cent—were approved. Some 73 per cent—19—bond proposals also won.

One of the toughest elections this year is expected to occur in the mid-Michigan city of Grand Ledge, where voters have turned down a millage request four times in little over one year.

"We've tightened up now as much as we can," says Supt. Kenneth T. Beagle. "We can't tighten up any more."

Marquette school officials seek approval of a $7.6 million construction bond issue. "We present this program as an answer to the city's critical school needs," says superintendent Henry J. Bothwell.

The Michigan Education Association, bargaining unit for some 68,000 of the state's teachers, announced earlier this year that more than 2,000 probationary teachers in 43 districts had been notified they will not be rehired next year.

Girl, 14, Wins Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Susan Yoachum, a 14-year-old junior high school student from Dallas, Tex., won the National Spelling Bee championship Thursday.

Susan won out over Margaret Matthees, another 14-year-old from Huntsville, Ala., in a drawn-out two-way fight in the final round of the 1969 contest.

Susan and Margaret came together when David Groisser, a seventh-grade honor student from Brooklyn, N.Y., was eliminated in round 20 when he misspelled the word "quoits" as "quytes."

Susan's victory came when she correctly spelled interlocutory after she and Margaret each had missed a word.

Until the final spell down, a contestant who misses a word is out. But when the field is reduced to two, the winner must spell correctly the word missed by her opponent and also another word.

Susan got off to a bad start. She misspelled the word croissant, a crescent-shaped roll, making it "cruassant". Margaret got it right.

But Margaret missed out on egalitarian, putting an A where the first I should be.

Susan followed up and got it right, then clinched the victory with her spelling of interlocutory.

Susan wins a cash prize of $1,000 and a trip to New York. Margaret gets $500 and David Groisser $250.

Armory Assured For Gladstone, Varnum Reports

Construction of a National Guard Armory is expected to start in Gladstone next fall, culminating several years of effort on the project by State Rep. Charles H. Varnum (R-Manistiquette), it is announced today.

In announcing approval of the $150,000 in state funds for the new armory, it was noted that "perseverance pays off," for Varnum has been working hard on the project for the past several years to secure funds for armories at both Gladstone and Manistiquette.

"I am sorry that both of these projects could not be approved this year," said Varnum in announcing the state appropriation to assist in financing the construction.

Await Federal Funds

"I will continue to push for funds for the Manistiquette Armory and I hope that the lack of Federal funds now holding up that project will be ended soon and that funds will soon be forthcoming. Indications now are that Federal funds may be available in 1970," Varnum reported.

Appearing recently before the Michigan Joint Capital Outlay Committee, Varnum testified in behalf of the $150,000 appropriation, and was later informed of the approval of the funds.

"This culminates some six or seven years of trying," Varnum said. "The $150,000 will be joined by a Federal grant of $273,000 and local contributions of $75,000 to complete the construction costs."

Overlooks Bay

Varnum said he has been told by Brig. General Carson R. Neifert, the assistant Adjutant General, Army of the Michigan National Guard, that armory construction at Gladstone is expected to start this fall.

The National Guard unit was housed in Escanaba for a number of years in rented quarters on N. 23rd St., but efforts to satisfy the needs of the Guard as to site for a new building were unsuccessful.

The Guard then removed to Gladstone where it occupied rented space in the Rialto theater building.

This arrangement was ended some time ago and the Guard is presently housed in the former Delta County Nursing Home north of Escanaba, a building owned by the county.

The new armory will be located in Gladstone on a site described as the former Girl Scout daycamp area. The area is a land-gift for the armory project from the Gladstone Board of Education.

JAY T. KNUTSEN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Knutsen, 417 S. 10th St., Gladstone, will receive his B. A. degree in Marketing at Michigan State University on Sunday. He is a graduate of Gladstone High School.

Young Pitcher Dazzles Tigers 'With Motion'

DETROIT (AP) — "With a name like Lauzerique he would pitch every day in Montreal," someone quipped.

But George Lauzerique isn't French. And he doesn't play for the Expos.

And although he won't pitch everyday, he looked fully capable of joining the starting rotation as he hurled the Oakland Athletics to a 5-3 win over the Detroit Tigers Friday night.

It was only his second major league start, but it was his second straight win since being called up from Des Moines of the American Association May 28.

"That boy dazzled us with his motion," said Tiger Manager Mayo Smith.

Thrilled To Win

Bert Campaneris ripped three leadoff hits and scored three times and rookie catcher Gene Tenace hit his first major league homer for the decisive run in the victory. Norm Cash hit a two-run homer and Bill Freehan a solo blast for the Tigers.

"It was a big thrill to win against the Tigers," said the 21-year-old Lauzerique, who was born in Cuba but spent most of his life in New York City.

Lauzerique did not stick with the Athletics team that started the season. The coaching staff wanted him to be a reliever but he felt he should be a starting pitcher.

"It was a disappointment when they sent me down (to Des Moines)," he said. "But I had a 5-0 record down there and was doing well and that must have convinced them."

In his debut last week he gave up seven hits and one run in a victory over Cleveland.

"I just hope I can keep it up," Lauzerique said. "I want to help the club and help myself."

But he doesn't think his two performances will make him a part of the regular starting rotation.

"I'm just an extra man right now," he said modestly. "Jim Nash has a sore shoulder and I'm just taking his place."

Cash's two-run home run in the eighth brought Rolie Fingers in relief of Lauzerique, but the Athletics never appeared in any real danger.

Tenace's homer, his second career hit, came in the fourth against Earl Wilson, 4-5, and gave Oakland a 4-1 lead.

Campaneris opened the game with a double and scored on Danny Cater's single. After Freehan tied the game for Detroit with his seventh season homer in the second, Campaneris started the third with a single and came in on Mike Hersberger's double. Reggie Jackson singled Hersberger home.

Campaneris led off the fifth with another single, took second on a sacrifice, third on a wild pitch and scored when shortstop Mickey Stanley bobbled Cater's grounder.

The win was only the third in nine games for the A's, who were 3½ games behind Minnesota in the West Division of the American League going into the game.

Detroit has lost four of its last five and fell 9½ games behind Baltimore in the East Division.

Expos Lose 19th Straight

By The Associated Press

The Montreal Expos, like the New York Mets, might have to wait eight years before winning eight games in a row, but right now the Expos must be asking what it takes to win one straight.

The Expos failed to come up with the correct answer again Friday night when they dropped a 4-2 decision to the Los Angeles Dodgers, their 19th straight defeat.

Muddling through their first year of existence as one of the four latest expansion teams, Montreal already has passed the Mets' expansion record of 17 consecutive losses and now are closing in on the modern all-time record for 23 set by Philadelphia in 1961.

The Mets, in contrast, are setting an example for perseverance for all expansion clubs. After suffering through years of ineptitude as one of the first expansion teams, the Mets have suddenly become a team to be envied, rolling by the new San Diego team 5-3 for a club record eighth consecutive victory.

The Expos and Mets weren't the only big losers and winners around.

The Chicago Cubs ran their winning streak to seven by clubbing Cincinnati 14-8 in a day game while San Francisco handed Philadelphia its sixth straight loss, 4-0.

In other games, Atlanta trimmed Pittsburgh 3-1 and St. Louis beat Houston 6-3.

The Expos could see the end in sight after 5½ innings as Dan McGinn, making his first start after 23 relief appearances, held a 2-1 lead on a run-scoring single by reappearing Maury Wills and a sacrifice fly by Mack Jones in the fifth.

But in the sixth, John Miller, who entered the line-up in the first inning when Willie Davis was hit in the face by a pitch, singled and Wes Parker blasted his fifth homer.

The Dodgers added an unearned run later and Don Sutton 8-4, with ninth inning relief from Jim Brewer, sent the Expos after another answer.

The Mets, on the other hand, after eight years of losing, have come up with all the answers as they ended San Diego's six-game winning streak. Art Shamsky was one of them, coming up as a pinch hitter in the eighth inning and singling in the tie-breaking run.

Tommye Agee doubled home another run in the ninth and rookie Gary Gentry, 5-4, giving only five hits before needing ninth inning relief, got the victory. The only runs off him were Ed Spiezio's homer and a two-run error by Ed Kranepool, who later doubled in the tying run in a two-run Mets' sixth.

The Cubs built a 10-1 lead in four innings as Ernie Banks and Billy Williams clouted three-run homers and Don Young had a solo shot. Ken Holtzman, with only one loss, became the league's first nine-game winner, although he was driven out in the sixth. Phil Regan saved the triumph.

Willie McCovey again was the big noise for San Francisco, hitting two solo homers to go with one by Willie Mays behind the five-hit pitching of Gaylord Perry, 8-5. McCovey now has the major league lead with 19 homers including 10 in his last 12 games, and has raised his average to .348. Mays' homer was his seventh and 594th of his career.

Hank Aaron's 14th homer of the season and 524th of his career gave Atlanta a 1-1 tie and Mike Lum singled in the decisive run in the fifth inning as Phil Niekro, 8-4, scattered seven hits for the victory.

Tim McCarver, who set up the tying run with a sixth-inning single, drove in St. Louis' winning run with a hit in the seventh before Lou Brock and Mike Shannon doubled in later runs.

Nelson Briles, who gave up a three-run first inning homer to Norm Miller, pitched into the ninth to even his record at 4-4.

Namath Keeps Door Open To Return To Pro Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Did Joe Namath really mean it?

Yes, Joe Namath really meant it when he said he was quitting.

But because he meant it when he said it doesn't mean that Namath won't be back taking the snap from center, the familiar No. 12 on his green and white Jet jersey stretched over his slouched shoulders, when the 1969 pro football season begins.

That Namath meant what he said was apparent Friday when the shaggy-haired quarterback of the New York Jets, tears running down the cheeks that have so often been bussed by adoring mini-skirted girls, announced he was quitting pro football rather than sell his interest in an East Side cafe frequented by gamblers.

But Donn Clendenon announced his retirement, and changed his mind. Ken Harrelson announced his retirement, and changed his mind. Maury Wills announced his retirement, and changed his mind. Joe Namath announced his retirement, and can change his mind.

Namath, himself, left the door open when he was asked following his announcement at the Bachelors III night spot, center of the dispute, whether he thought his differences with Pro Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle could be resolved.

"I hope so," said Namath. "The last thing I want to do is quit football."

And what could make Namath change his mind? His loyalty to his teammates.

Namath's hand may already have been pushed in that direction by the quick support he received from three other members of the Jets—splintered George Sauer Jr., tight end Pete Lammons and defensive back Jim Hudson.

All three, first-stringers on the team that stunned the pro football world by upsetting the Baltimore Colts 16-7 in the Super Bowl less than five months ago, said they would join Namath in retirement.

But while Namath already has his first $400,000 contract in the bank, a string of lucrative drive-in restaurants and a possible movie career awaiting him, Sauer, Lammons and Hudson would be far less able to withstand the loss of their football salaries.

Restaurant At Issue

Realizing this in the days of lessening tension that lie ahead, it would be fully in Namath's character for his loyalty to those three teammates to override other considerations and lead him to renounce his retirement so they can renounce theirs.

Namath indicated his intense loyalty to his teammates following the Super Bowl victory over the Colts when he speculated that his ailing legs might force him to quit, but emphasized that any decision he would make along those lines would have to take his teammates into consideration.

"There would be," he said at the time, "a sense of letting them down if I quit."

In order to resolve his differences with Rozelle, however, Namath must divest himself of his interest in the swinging restaurant that apparently attracted a mixed clientele of fresh-faced girls and somewhat less fresh-faced gamblers.

"If he wants to reconsider," said Rozelle, "I'll be happy to talk to him privately. I'd like to see him play football very much. I was surprised at the news from the press conference because I thought last night (Thursday) that he had agreed to sell."

Rozelle had issued an ultimatum to Namath to sell his interest in Bachelors III by Friday. Escanaba Paper No. 2, Lark's Bar No. 1, AMVETS No. 1, Metropolitan No. 1, Independents No. 2.

Rozelle, in a formal statement, explained why he had issued the ultimatum even while emphasizing that no evidence exists that Namath was personally involved in any illegal activities.

"It is obviously impossible," and habits is cause for deep concern.

Quarantine Faces Moon Landers

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The first men to set foot on the moon will face two weeks of quarantine when they return to earth, before there will be any welcoming ceremonies. They'll also get a cold shower of iodine disinfectants.

These were among the precautions outlined by a group of scientists Thursday. The steps are aimed at insuring that the returning astronauts do not contaminate the earth or its atmosphere with lunar particles.

Dr. David J. Sencer, head of the National Communicable Disease Center, described the danger as "remote but still possible."

Both astronauts who will walk on the moon surface scheduled for the Apollo 11 flight in July will discard their special gloves and boots before they leave the moon.

Once the astronauts return to their ship, they will expose plant and animal life to lunar specimens to check for adverse reaction. However, Sencer said, the bodies of the astronauts themselves are the most likely hosts for hostile bacteria, virus or parasites.

Biologists estimate that there are 25,000 species of fish.

Seek To Oust Board Treasurer

TROY (AP) — Two incumbents and four former members of the Troy Board of Education called Friday for Harold A. Jones, board treasurer, to resign, claiming he had created an "oppressive cloud of doubt, suspicion and dissension" by questioning the board's financial actions.

Jones recently contended $105,000 in school funds had been misused in the purchase of furnishings rather than for buildings and sites, as required by the bond issue with which the money came.

Holding that the money had been used for school purposes, Attorney General Frank Kelley said he could find no malfeasance or misfeasance on the board's part, although there might have been financial mismanagement.

McNally 'Finishes Pilots As Orioles Continue Hot

By The Associated Press

Dave McNally finally got around to finishing what he started. Barry Moore and Darold Knowles got much the same results working in shifts.

McNally, Baltimore's unbeaten pitcher ace, beat Seattle 5-1 Friday night with a four-hitter for his eighth victory of the season—and first complete game in three weeks—as the Orioles continued to soar in the American League East Division.

Moore and Knowles yielded two hits apiece, hurling Washington past Minnesota's West Division leaders 1-0 and moving the surprising Senators back to the .500 mark for the first time in two weeks.

In other AL action, Oakland toppled Detroit 5-3; Boston edged Kansas City 4-2 in 11 innings; Cleveland whipped California 8-3, and the New York Yankees nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2.

McNally, 22-2 for the Orioles since the 1968 All-Star break, breezed past the Pilots in his best effort since May 15, when he blanked Minnesota 5-0 on a one-hitter—Cesar Tovar's one-out single in the ninth. The 26-year-old Southpaw failed to finish his next four starts, picking up one victory along the way despite his spotty performances.

"I'm not concerned about complete games, but the way I've been throwing the ball," said McNally, who balked home Seattle's lone run and lowered his ERA to 2.91.

Frank Robinson, who hit his 14th homer before being ejected for disputing a called strike, and Paul Blair knocked in two runs apiece for the high-flying Orioles, who have won four in a row and 16 of their last 19 for a 4½-game bulge over second place Boston in the East.

Moore, who had accounted for two of the five complete games rescored by the Washington staff with consecutive six-hitters in his previous starts, held Minnesota in check until the fifth inning, when he pulled a muscle in the right side of his back. Knowles saved the southpaw's fifth victory in six decisions with another brilliant relief stint.

Knowles has not given up a run in five appearances, spanning 10 2-3 innings, since rejoining the Senator last month after his release from military service.

Fran Howard, who had three of the Senators' 11 hits, opened the sixth with a single and moved around to score the game's only run on a walk, Ken McMullen's single and Dick Billings' double play grounder.

Dalton Jones crashed a two-run homer in the 11th, sending the Red Sox past the Royals, who have dropped eight of their last nine starts. Dick Schofield lined a ground rule double before Jones unloaded against reliever Moe Dabowsky.

Jerry Adair, a former Boston infielder, sent Kansas City ahead 2-1 in the 10th with a bases-loaded single, but the Red Sox relied it on George Scott's two-out homer in the bottom half.

Tony Horton delivered four runs with his ninth and 10th homers as Cleveland bombed the Angels and put together its first three-game winning streak of the season. Ken Harrelson contributed a two-run homer to the Indians' attack.

Stan Bahnsen pitched a five-hitter and drove in the deciding run with a bloop single in the fifth inning as the Yanks snapped a three-game losing string by squeezing past the White Sox. Bahnsen, who had lost eight of his previous nine decisions, survived Bobby Knapp's sixth homer.
